PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

With each new year comes new hope and while a change in the status of indoor activities may not be coming until later in the year, we can certainly hope that we do see some return to normalcy, perhaps by the summer or fall. In the meantime, the Board will continue to promote new ideas for shorts or productions that comply with safety measures so we keep our members and patrons engaged, entertained, and more importantly, safe. After more deliberation and discussion, it looks like we will be pushing Follies to the Spring of 2022. The Board, in consultation with Director Vince Parrillo, decided that this was the best course of action after considering rehearsal and production needs, seating and audience restrictions, and potential enthusiasm. In place of major productions, we are hoping to continue to produce smaller pieces that lend themselves better to the new formats we established last summer and fall. As always, none of this can be achieved without your input and energy so please come to the meetings and find out how to get involved and support your Players Guild! - Daniel Giordano, President

JANUARY WORKSHOP

There are so many different types of inspirations and inspiration can truly come from anything, anywhere, and from within one self. "Songs of Inspiration" is truly all about inspiration and the workshop directed by Nicole Parente inspired all who participated, whether as a cast, band, or audience member. Cast members had an opportunity to tell their individual stories, why they chose the song, and how they were inspired. The workshop was also in honor of all those who helped make the PGL what it is today, and to thank all the individuals who impacted us personally, by giving each and everyone one of us the strength and drive to be a performer. Nikki is excited to share and sing a song after our General Meeting this Thursday, as well as talk about her experience directing the workshop. Please take a minute to enjoy her Songs of Inspiration workshop, which can be viewed on the PGL's You Tube Channel. Just click on the link below:

Take 2! Unfortunately, December proved to be a busy month for many of us, so we are working on bringing our PGL Trivia night back to life this Spring. Mark your calendars for Friday, March 26, 2021. Additional information will be forthcoming so keep an eye out for details in our upcoming February and March issue of the Prompter. In the meantime, start brushing up, again, on PGL and Broadway shows general knowledge. It will be a lot of fun!
